"…reference points could include everyone from Bon Iver to James Blake, alongside Brian Eno's more ambient works." - Clash

Following the success of recent single Unfold, electro-folk outfit Night House return with their brand new single To Be With, out on 3rd May 2019 via Back In The Woods Records.

Produced and mixed by Dan Brown (Massive Attack, Jerry Williams), the track was written after the passing of lead singer Nick Williams' grandfather. The single is a love song told from the perspective of those left behind; exploring themes of our own fragile mortality. Williams' stark falsetto vocal floats above cello, clarinet, violin and double bass, blending beautifully with electronic drum machines, icy synths and the warm sonics of Fender Rhodes.

Led by the aforementioned Nick Williams, Night House are a seven piece band made up of Alfie Weedon (double bass), Amy Squirrell (cello), Andrew Stuart Buttle (violin), Freya Bowes (clarinet), Juan Torán (electric guitar) and James Purvice (drums). Having supported the likes of Ben Howard, Willy Mason and The Magic Numbers, Night House have since gone onto pick up support from tastemakers sites such as Clash Magazine, The Vinyl District and Come Here Floyd as well as premiering their video for Unfold on Attitude Magazine. Latest single To Be Me is taken from the forthcoming album Everyone Is Watching From Afar and will be released alongside b-side New Year's Prayer.

To Be With is out on 3rd May 2019 via Back In The Woods Records.
