“...a very engaging mindful moment.” - Folk Radio UK

Australian singer-songwriter Tom West prepares to release his latest collection of powerfully poignant vignettes on upcoming album I'm Livin'!, due for release on 18th June 2021 via AntiFragile Music.

Combining alt-folk, country, rock and blues-tinged sensibilities throughout, I'm Livin'! showcases West's unique ability to defy genre whilst also making each song feel immediately familiar and oozing with warmth. West's distinctive, androgynous vocal style feels instantly reminiscent of the likes of Jake Bugg or The Tallest Man On Earth, whilst his intimate and reflective writing style mirrors that of Ray LaMontagne and Iron & Wine effortlessly.

Talking about the album, West explains, "this album is a very raw and instinctive expression. As I was creating it I wasn't thinking practically or in a music business mindset, it was at a time when I was confused about where my music fit in the world, I was getting wracked by powerful, life changing events. As such, I feel like this album is a bit of a crazy hot mess, but it's one that I think is pretty cool, that I'm really proud of and worked fucking hard on. It's a product of a series of really unique circumstances. From the top of the record to the bottom I'd love this album to be listened to as a whole, ideally on a long and meditative walk through the suburbs up the side of a hill to somewhere where you can get a view."

With over 7 million streams on Spotify, supporting major acts like Newton Faulkner and securing sets at the Philadelphia Folk Fest 2018, Porchland Fest 2019 and Official SXSW 2020 (cancelled), as well as scores of shows on both sides of the Pacific Ocean, Tom is determined to come back after COVID-19 with powerful new material for his prodigious live shows. West has already received support from the likes of Paste, Atwood Magazine and American Songwriter to name a few. Tom has also been included on multiple Spotify editorial playlists including Happy Folk, Afternoon Acoustic and Folk Pop to name a few.

I'm Livin'! is out on 18th June 2021 via AntiFragile Music.
