A&R WORLDWIDE'S "ARTIST OF THE WEEK"- NUALA

Multi-instrumentalist Nuala (pronounced 'Noo Are La') began writing songs at just 10-years-old, before going on to play in a cover band at 13. After performing at various venues around Leicester, Nuala moved to London becoming a full-time busker, playing a number of gigs around the city and booking festivals. With a multitude of influences ranging from Bob Marley and Nirvana to Lily Allen and Eminem, it's no surprise that she creates an eclectic, authentic collection of songs. Nuala has earned support from Steve Lamacq, BBC Radio London, BBC Radio Leicester and performed the lead vocal for a remix of Nile Rogers' "Le Freak," beating 3000 other entrants in the process. Nuala recently released her new single, "Split Down The Middle," taken from her forthcoming EP Me&Me. The new track is the first taste of her new music as she has crafted a bunch of songs for herself, she is also focused on writing for other artists enlisting help from the likes of Romeo (The Magic Numbers), Will Rees (The Mystery Jets), Max Clilverd (Tom Odell), Tom Fuller (Florence + The Machine, Adele) and more. Listen to "Split Down The Middle" HERE and contact Marco Ferraro at marco@manajamma.com, as Nuala is available for label, publishing, branding and synch opportunities.
